DIVORCE ECONOMICS 101

*Stop the the struggle over who gets the house
Quickly determine whether the fight can be resolved by negotiation
Make arguments disappear in the light of economic facts*

As a mediator, collaborative or family law attorney, you know the resources in most divorces are limited. You must maximize your effectiveness, preserve marital estates and get paid. However, underneath all of the grieving, anger, and regrets, the one truth is often missed in divorce: the simple economic realities. Overlooking these realities or not knowing how to get to them, will cost you time and money. Forensic CPA and mediator, Nicholas L. Bourdeau, teaches the basic principles and what to do when things don't stay basic.

In Divorce Economics 101, you'll learn to:

- Determine what is and what is not income for the child support, alimony and the marital estate settlement
- Make arguments disappear in the light of economic facts
- Recognize the pitfalls of pension plans and learn how to deal with what may be the largest asset in the marital estate
- Effectively manage a divorce

As the "go to guy" in divorce economics, Bourdeau teaches professionals how to get to the economic realities of divorce and diffuse anger with economic facts. His dollars and cents, "nuts and bolts" approach to ending marriages helps you:

- Learn court and mediation tested valuation and summarization techniques
- Find out when to get valuation experts and how to use them
- Learn how to maintain control and direction during mediation

Bourdeau's ground-breaking book and CD set, The Determination of Income for Child Support, summarizes his years of wisdom and practice. Don't miss the opportunity to hear Bourdeau's innovative workshop, Divorce Economics 101!
